

(a) Study 5 and 6 design

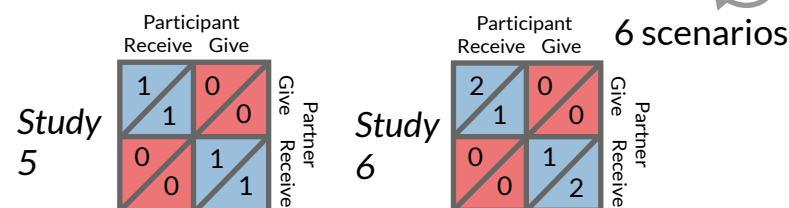

Instructions: Imagine that you are traveling very far away, and meet a new group of people you know nothing about. You are trying to learn about the people, the society, and the language, all at the same time. Based on your identity, your work, and/or your roles, you are (or want to be) in different kinds of relationships with the people in the society. The people you interact with all know and act based on the social rules and norms of the society.

At the end of a ritual, the sacred objects must be returned to their keeper. Someone must carry the heavier object and someone must carry the lighter object. You and Fadi are in a relationship where Fadi has (equal / more / less) power, status, or influence than you.

You and Fadi are participating in this ritual for the first time. What do you do?
Carry the lighter object / Carry the heavier object

You chose to (carry the lighter object / carry the heavier object).
Fadi chose to carry the heavier object.
The interaction was (smooth / awkward).

You and Fadi are participating in this ritual for the second time. What do you do?
Carry the lighter object / Carry the heavier object
